U.T.J.C. Completes First Fifteen Years

Has Graduates In Many States of the U. S.—Boys Lead Girls In Enrollment

ONLY FOUR OF ORIGINAL FIRST YEAR FACULTY STILL TEACHING HERE

The school year 1941-42 marked the close of fifteen years of UTJC history. For the most part this history is one of consistent growth, with the exception of 1933-34 when the depression and the elimination of football brought the figure to lowest of the whole period. The following year football was reinstated and an intensive campaign inaugurated which resulted in practically a trebled enrollment for 1934-35. Since that time enrollment has been steady until the last year of the fifteen-year period when the war began to make inroads on college statistics.

A glance at the table on page 7 reveals the interesting fact that the percentage of students from West Tennessee Counties has been going down with an exception of two years throughout the entire 15-year period, while the actual number from these same counties has been going up. This shows that the College is becoming less and less a sectional institution and more a State institution, which fits in with the motto of the University: "The campus is the State."

In the last eight years in particular enrollment from Middle Tennessee counties has trebled, quadrupled, and in the fifteenth year was nearly five times that of 1934-35, and, as a matter of fact, was just that in the preceding year. It is to be noted that in the first 15 years the number of counties of the state represented on the campus has risen from 17 the first year to 40 last year, or roughly half of the counties of the entire state. Not to be overlooked either is the gradually growing sprinkling of students from other states.

The statistics on the sexes bring out the fact that only in one year, the first, have girls had the edge over boys on the campus. From that first year on through the eleventh the decline of the girls in the percentage column dipped to a low of 31%. Since 1938-39 they have been climbing back up till they have almost an even break with the boys. It hardly needs mentioning that the number of girls on the campus has been on the increase down through these years, so much so in fact that it was felt necessary two years ago or in the Fall of 1941, to take over the former Boys' Dormitory to house the girls who could not be scattered over Martin in private homes as could boys.

During this period the College has enrolled around 2700 students, many of whom are holding responsible positions all over the country. Three of them are on the faculty of the parent institution at Knoxville, another on the faculty of Carson-Newman College, while several are on the faculties of junior colleges here and there. Outside of the college world the list of Junior College graduates in the professions, home economics and agricultural agents and teachers is one of which to be proud. All in all it may be said in conclusion that UTJC is growing up and now can look over its graduates who are taking their places in all walks with pardonable pride in having had a part in their training.

Bob Elliott ('28) is in charge of a migratory labor camp for Mexican agricultural workers operated under the Farm Security Administration. His location is McAllen, Tex. The constantly changing population of the little settlement is well housed, has constant medical supervision, and good schools. They are encouraged in improving their daily living routines.

Fifty Army-Navy Reserves At UTJC

Expect To Remain At Least Through Present Quarter—Possibly Next

Fifty boys on the campus are signed up with either the Army or Navy in the enlisted reserve corps. This is about half of the boys enrolled. The group not signed up is composed for the most part of those who preferred to go into the service by the draft route and of those who are under age or have been disqualified physically. Thirty of those in the reserves are signed up with the Army or Army Air Reserves while twenty are going to the Navy or Navy Air Reserves. Most of these boys expect to remain at the College through the Winter Quarter which ends around the middle of March, although those enlisted for air training may be called at the discretion of the Air Corps.

Manpower Chairman McNutt has urged all male students to remain in college until they are called for military service. When called to active duty it is likely that some of these men will be detailed to special schools for further training qualifying them more particularly for the branch of the service to which they are going. In a letter sent out to the enlisted reserves during the holidays Executive Officer Meek quoted Chairman McNutt to the effect that all 18-19-year olds were being urged to enter college, the reason being "The War Manpower Commission is planning ahead so that there may be adequate reserves for leadership in professional and technical fields to avoid serious shortages."

This publication is dedicated to the boys in the camps and overseas, and to the their campus mother, Mrs. Florence Blackman, officially Hostess of the Boys' Dormitory for many years, and personally a devoted mother to every boy who came to live in her halls. And her heart still belongs to you, boys; you may take our word for it. There is a chamber in it reserved for you and you alone.

Here's to you, Blackie! May you still be with us when our hair, too, has turned to silver.

Assignments Tough But Victory Sure

Executive Officer Sends Greetings and Assurance of Support on Home Front

Dear Alumni:

Greetings to all former students! Our special thoughts to those men and women who are serving in the armed forces. We have endeavored in this issue of The Volette, dedicated to you, to bring information about your friends and some news of your institution. We trust its reading will afford you as much pleasure as its preparation has provided us.

Assignments come with varying degrees of logic. One may be called upon to answer a question in class when least prepared, or the question may hit his lowest store of information. In this world-wide conflict many assignments to you may be tough and unexpected. We haven't a shadow of doubt about your versatility in meeting every issue to the limit of your powers. Individually, we may hit into hard luck occasionally. Collectively we know that the outcome of this conflict will be a great victory.

The University of Tennessee Junior College staff is proud to be working overtime in support of War Training Service under the Civil Aeronautics Administration as well as in line of regular instruction. Our reservists both in the Army and in the Navy will be leaving us for active duty after the winter or spring quarter. But the increase in War Training Service is requiring us at this moment to expend faculty personnel in that service.

The number of our former students in active service makes us swell with pride. We keep each of you before us and in the mind of our students and friends. Sorrow grips us as one falls prisoner, or as the star of another takes on the rich color of gold.

On active duty in the armed forces our faculty is well represented. This, too, adds to our total awareness and our eagerness, as students and faculty now on the campus, to make a powerful and supporting second front here. We shall not fail you. Many of us will enroll in munition plants, nor in college; some will study mathematics and physics as never before; others as cadets will tackle both the theory and practice of flight. In hundreds of ways we are with you now. We shall not fail you. And we know you will not fail us.

PAUL MEEK.

Now WTS At UTJC—Old CPT Gone

New Program Will Train Naval Air Cadets On Local Campus

It is now WTS at the Junior College. The Civilian Pilot Training or CPT under which a number of students received their flight training at Gill-Dove Airways in cooperation with the College, has passed out of the picture. It is now War Training Service with the Government sending quotas of selected men here for training. The over-all program is still administered through CAA or the Civil Aeronautics Administration with district headquarters in Nashville and southern headquarters in Atlanta.

Under the previous program the College enrolled ten students who had to pass physical examinations given by designated physicians, carry certain prescribed courses such as meteorology, civil air regulations, etc., and pass in their flying course. Later this was expanded to permit civilians not in college to qualify for the course. These men were enlisted in the Army Air Reserve and on the completion of their course are subject to immediate call to duty for the type of flying service for which they enrolled. The last group of ten of these men were in the last two weeks of their training when the first ten naval air cadets arrived on the campus in the middle of December. Since the College has been designated for the training of naval air cadets, this means that no more army air men will receive training at this base, it being against the general policies of the services to mix up their men. Twenty more of these men arrived on January 17 for training, making a total of thirty now here. Others are scheduled to arrive within the next few days so that eventually there may be as high as fifty of these men on the campus at varying stages of training. Each quota of men is on the campus for two months, the minimum time for the intensive training program required.

As will be noted from the lists carried on the back page the first group comes largely from Alabama and the second entirely from the Tar Heel State. The boys are almost without exception young college men in the freshman and sophomore years.

Corporal Wilfred Head ('40), assigned to duties in the Technical Library at Keesler Field, Mississippi, has presented the Junior College Library with his personal copy of "This Above All," by Eric Knight.

We have had several former students that are now in the armed forces, visit with us during

This is how the present campus and buildings of UTJC look from the air. Note that the roads which used to run in front of the buildings are now at the back. And most interesting of all to students of the past several years will be the walks that run in graceful curves from building to building over the campus. These are asphalt covered walks which blend into the landscape and are much better than the cinders and Kentucky gravel which skidded and rolled under the feet of past generations of students. When the needed buildings are filled in the inner campus will be in an oval shape which can already be seen taking on this form.

Over 1100 Alumni Respond To Survey

Answers To 2,700 Cards Enthusiastic Over Prospect of Getting News of Classmates and College

Committee Pleased With Returns

Expresses Thanks, Asks For Tolerance of Errors In Its Work Under Pressure

To Our Boys in the Camps and Overseas:

We are not unmindful of the tasks that lie ahead of you, nor of the sacrifices many of you are making, and we constantly wish there were definite, direct, personal things we might do to show you that this is true. It has come to us that for you who are away from home and old friends we could do nothing better than to re-establish for you contact with former classmates, so we have made an effort to do just that in the following lists of names and addresses of former students of the Junior College.

A survey was made through the mails early in December of all alumni—some 2,700 individuals—and 1,100 responses were received during the remainder of December and the first week in January. All of those names appear on the following lists, along with a few additional ones which came to our attention recently through other channels. Since the job had to be done under pressure of other work, scant available help, and had to be rushed as much as possible because of the frequent changes in camp addresses, there are bound to be many errors, but we are counting on your kindness in not holding these against us. It is our hope that each of you who reads may have just half the pleasure from the reading that we have had from the preparing of this material.

The old Gym, now a military barracks, is proudly flying service flags with a star for each of you. So far only three of them are gold, and for this we are daily thankful. As new names come to our attention they will be added to the service lists, and the stars to the flag. We shall appreciate your cooperation in keeping us informed.

This our wish for 1943: May peace return to this war-torn world and bring each of you safely back home.

FACULTY ALUMNI COMMITTEE

TEE
Myrtle H. Phillips, Chm.
Florence Blackman
Mary H. Gardner
Earl M. Knepp

All misgivings of the Alumni Committee as to whether the number of responses under present conditions would justify the expense and effort of making an alumni survey were quickly wiped out as the return cards began to pour in with each incoming mail.

The idea of the Committee of assembling these data and passing along to former students through the columns of The Volette has unquestionably appealed to most of those who have mailed in the information requested. In fact, several former students have added such messages as "Don't forget me when you send out the paper" and "I think this is a grand idea; I'll be waiting eagerly for my copy." Two other students added postscripts which made the Committee feel that its work was well worth while, as follows: "Altho I have attended three other schools since leaving UTJC, I still think of U.T. Jr., when I think of school" and "I hope other students of UTJC appreciate what you plan doing as I do. What school but good old UTJC would think of doing such a nice thing as this for us!" "UT JC, my favorite Alma Mater."

Of course in many cases parents filled out cards and sent them in for sons who are in remote parts of the globe fighting the battle of freedom but they have been just as eager to get the paper to send along to John, or Bill, or Sam at (censored) as it is hoped they will be to get it.

Mailing regulations have been restricted since the Committee began its work and it will now be necessary for those outside the United States to request their parents or the Committee to send them the paper. Changes are taking place rapidly three days and many of the addresses and ranks of those in the service will have changed in the three weeks of assembling. The status of some of those in the civilian lists will have changed from single to married and from Private Citizen John Doe to Private John Doe. The statement of The Committee in the next column covers this and other difficulties along with a million thanks for the co-operation of all who have made possible this edition of the paper.

J. C. Flake, 1932-34, is working with the Evaporated Milk Association, 307 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. His permanent address is 301 Jones St., Lansing, Mich. He is Dr. Flake to the rest of the world now, but we still remember him as one of the most determined, hardest working freshmen who ever landed on the UT JC campus. Through his own effort he kept going right through to his Doctor's Degree before he stopped for breath, AND he made honor rolls all down the line. We hear he is considered as quite an authority in his chosen field, and that he is an able speaker on his topic, having learned long ago what is worth while for the end in view. We are proud of you J.C.!

Benjamin Allen Franklin, 1934-36, now lives at 102 Clark Place, Memphis, Tenn. "Freck" is employed by the Chickasaw Ordnance Works for the present, but he, too, expects the call to active duty in the army about the last of February.

Mrs. David S. Jamieson, 1936-37, is Ration Board Clerk at Covington. She is Esther Jones in matrimonial disguise. Most of you living in Tipton County are no doubt keeping in close touch with Esther!

Everett McIlwain, 1935-36, is Vocational Agriculture teacher at Parsons, Tenn. Everett was a married man when he came to us, so the girls hadn't a chance. Mrs. McIlwain is the former Hazel Duck, and they were married 'way back in 1932. Jimmie, 6, and Sammie, 2, complete the McIlwain family.

Dalton B. Mansfield, 1932-35, is Associate Inspector of Engineering Materials, and lives at Mayfield, Ky. Mrs. Mansfield is the former Claudine Wyatt, and their daughter Marian, is 5½ years old. Mrs. J. Gordon Moore is Inez Fisher, 1930-32. Inez was married in July 1939, and lives on Route 1, Whitehaven, Tenn. (We are keeping the faith with you, Inez. Only over tur dead body will they ever learn what that other name is!)

Walter S. Moore, 1936-38, was married in early August, 1942, and now lives in Memphis. Mrs. Moore was Miss Reba Ellen Griffin, of Memphis, before their marriage. Walter is now employed by the Chickasaw Ordnance Works.

Mary Annette Logan, 1941-43, is employed in the offices of Embury-Riddle Airport, Union City, Tenn.

Mrs. Douglas Murphy, of 305 University St., Martin, Tenn., was Montez Winstead when she was on the Junior College campus, back in 1930-31. She was married in October 1936, and now has a husky three-year-old called David who suggests a great team for the Junior Vols in 1958.

Dorris N. Neal, 1932-33, is a farmer living on Route 2, Henry, Tenn. He was married in 1935 to Miss Ila Joyner, and the Neal heir is nearly three years of age. They call him Paul Joe Henry Neal.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Nichols, 1928-30, like many another young couple, are separated temporarily by the war program. J. E. is now an army doctor on duty overseas, and Elizabeth is employed in the New York City Public Library. Mrs. Nichols will be remembered as Elizabeth Pressly.

Mrs. Elmer Oliver is Louise Vowell, 1931-33, and now lives on Route 1, Martin, Tenn. Richard Graden Oliver was born on Christmas Day, 1942, but we have just learned this morning of his death, on January 14. Our sincerest sympathy is yours, Louise; as we read this each of us who knew you will think of you and be with you in your sorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoke Pentecost, 1931-33, are Hoke Pentecost and Eckels Hunt, married in August 1937 and now living at 2673 Kinball Ave., Memphis, Tenn., where Hoke is a U. S. Railway Mail Clerk. Their two sons are Bob and Roland, 4½ years and 1 year old, respectively. Eckels will be remembered as "one of the Hunt twins."

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Pigue are Jimmie Pigue and Laura Burrus, 1938-40, who were married in April 1941 and now live at 1110 Stratford Ave., Nashville, Tenn.

Jim is Safety Director for Vultee Aircraft Co., and we know he is really doing the job in good style because he was drafted back into his job after he had gone into the armed forces. That is a real job, too, Jim—more power to you!

Mrs. James L. Roberts of Dyer, Tenn., Analyst in the Chemical Laboratory at the Wolf Creek Ordnance Plant, Milan, Tenn., is Dot Jackson, 1938-40, who was married in June 1942. While her husband is in the service of his country Dot is working for the same purpose. She was an outstanding student on our campus, and also on the campus of the University at Knoxville, where she and Lt. Roberts were fellow students.

Effie M. Maiden, 1930-31, is teaching Home Economics in the Whitehaven High School, Whitehaven, Tenn. Address her at 203 Hawthorne, Apt. 3, Memphis, Tenn.

That's all, 1,125 persons listed, and among them undoubtedly old friends to every reader who scans the list. We hope you renew old acquaintance with one another, and that you will never wait so long again to let us hear from you, too! So long . . . and best wishes to every one of you for 1943 and the years that come after.

MYRTLE H. PHILLIPS, Chm. UTJC Alumni Committee.

LIEUT. HARRIS ON BRIEF LEAVE HOME

Second Lieut. J. C. Harris, Jr., of the Field Artillery Corps, who received his commission several weeks ago at Fort Sil, Okla., and remained longer for a special course in mortars, arrived at home Wednesday night.

He has been transferred to Camp Campbell, Ky., and is to report there next Tuesday. Until then he will visit with his parents and other Martin relatives and friends.

Obeys that impulse! Write to your old classmates. They are anxious to hear from you.

What They Are Doing These JC Alumni

In the tabulation of over 1,100 replies received in response to the survey of alumni made for this publication, present occupations of Junior College alumni were shown to be as follows:

- 394 in the armed forces (and 51 expecting immediate call)
- 150 teaching
- 148 housewives
- 89 engaged in defense work
- 76 students in four-year colleges or universities.
- 39 farming
- 22 county agents, or assistant county agents, of agriculture, and home economics
- 15 F.S.A. and Soil Conservation Supervisors
- 14 employed in aeronautical work
- 6 doctors
- 5 laboratory technicians
- 3 nurses
- 2 dentists
- 2 pharmacists
- 2 ministers of the Gospel
- 1 veterinarian
- 1 Red Cross secretary
- 1 WAAC (another applied for this branch of service)
- 1 forester, working on rubber production program in Haiti
- 7 occupations not listed
- 116 in other businesses, not listed above.

PROFESSOR DEAN WRITES FROM UNIV. OF CHICAGO

Professor James R. Dean, who is on leave with the Armed Forces, writes from the University of Chicago to which he was detailed for special study in meteorology, that he and the other students have classes nine hours a day for four days and 13 hours one day of the week. The students are allowed about ten to fifteen minutes for lunch, he states. It is hardly necessary to add Air Cadet Dean's statement that he is kept quite busy by the intensive training program. At that the former mathematics and physics professor is not doing so badly.

In addition to the foregoing he writes that he is cadet corporal, mathematics assistant and received the most votes among five cadets for membership on the International House Student Council, where he is living. He and a Hawaiian girl teamed up to sing a duet "White Christmas" at the Christmas program given during the holidays. We wonder whether the costume requirements included a grass skirt for Mr. Dean.

The very best of luck to all of you out there in the camps, on the seas, in the air and over there on the fighting fronts. We'll be thinking of you often and before long will be joining you in the ranks of the service.

LET US HEAR FROM YOU ABOUT YOURSELF—ALUMNI COMMITTEE

Have you enjoyed reading about your old friends and classmates? Well, you may be practically certain they have had the same pleasure in having the news about you. Now doesn't that suggest something to you? How about letting us have interesting news about yourself from time to time without waiting for us to call you for it? The office staff at the College will do its very best to keep such information up to date and when you want to get in touch with an old friend we shall be only too glad to help you out. That will be possible only if you and he both keep us posted. Don't be modest. Tell us when you receive a promotion or honor of any kind. We share your pleasure and take pride in your success. Above all let us hear from you.

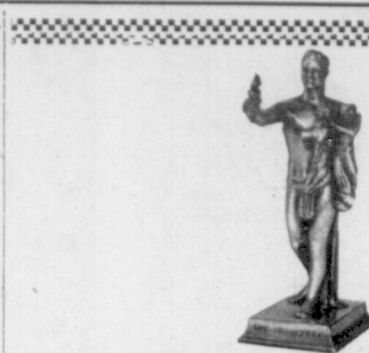

If our effort in getting out this paper meets with your approval kindly let us know, and we'll try to make it a much more frequent publication.

To the end that these shall not have died in vain we now and henceforth dedicate ourselves anew and more completely than ever to carry the torch on where they were compelled to lay it down so that America as we know it and love it may live on and Americans everywhere may work, worship, love, and live in the same full and free spirit for which these, our classmates and friends, laid down their lives. To them and to all others like them, who died for the same cause, we owe an eternal debt. May those of us who live not forget the price they and our forefathers have paid to give us America, strong, free and unfraild.

NAVAL CADET JULIAN BROCK
(1941-42) was killed January 11, 1943, when his plane crashed during the last five minutes of his secondary flying course at Austin Peay Normal School, Knapp Flight School, Clarksville, Tennessee. Military funeral, Greenfield, January 13.

LT. HARRY ELLSWORTH HANEY
(1935-36) was co-pilot of plane which crashed July 1, 1942, near Welch, West Virginia. Graduate of Murray State Teachers' College. Married Miss Adaline Hayden of Salem, Ky., April 3, 1942.

ENSIGN WOODROW WILSON WILLIAMS
(1937-39) died in line of duty when his plane crashed December 13, 1942, at an undisclosed location overseas. Received commission as Ensign at the Jacksonville, Fla., Training Station on August 14, 1942, and had been on overseas duty for some time. Entered service September 1941.

ENOCH WRITES ABOUT ENGLISH FOOD, HOSPITALITY

December 26, 1942.

Here's hoping you had a wonderful Christmas. Today is "Boxing Day" for the English. I don't know exactly what the name signifies, but I think it is a national holiday for them.

I had a very nice Christmas—a much more enjoyable day than I was expecting. The Sunday before Christmas our chaplain invited all the fellows to leave our names if we would like to spend Christmas day with the people in a nearby village. At first I hesitated, but after leaving my name and after I spent such an enjoyable day, I could kick myself for the hesitation. It was my first real visit to an English home. It also was the first real meal I have had in quite some time.

The people were really swell. We spent about eleven hours with them; I think almost ten of those hours were spent eating. I think the English have at least four meals each day regularly. We arrived at their home about eleven o'clock in the morning and had our "chicken dinner" about two in the afternoon—first baked chicken I have had since I left the states. Our next meal was at five—the English "tea time." They have tea, meat pies, cookies, cake, etc. Our last meal was at nine in the evening—also a heavy meal. They had various nicknacks they passed around between meals.

The family was real nice—man, wife, a boy 13 and a daughter 15. Their home was of the old English type built about 400 years ago. Of course it had been remodeled several times.

Probably the most delicious dish was what they call their Christmas pudding, very similar to an American fruit cake, but they boil it instead of baking. It was really delicious.

I suppose many of the boys in the states will get off during the holidays. Many of the fellows here had time off.

I have had K.P. today to cap off my Christmas. I was lucky to get three days at a whack. I shouldn't complain at a little work.

It is getting late and I have to get out rather early in the morning. So I will close for this time.

Love to all,
James.

FORMER STUDENT LASHES SELF TO TABLE TO OPERATE ON BUCKING DESTROYER

U. T. Doctor Operated

(We reproduce the following article from the columns of the Press-Scimitar because, first, it may have escaped the attention of many of our alumni at the time of its original publication; and second, because it shows the heroic part being played by hundreds of our former students' as routine service in the winning of this war.—Alumni Committee.)

If it hadn't been for the war, Lt. Paul Pickering, Navy doctor, would be instructing young dentists in a quiet classroom of the University of Tennessee, College of Dentistry, in Memphis.

But as it is, Lt. Pickering is stationed aboard a destroyer in the South Pacific, where he heroically performed an emergency appendix operation during a raging typhoon.

Paul Pickering, from Fulton, Ky., enrolled at the University of Tennessee College of Dentistry, in 1930, and finished, sixth in his class in 1934, according to Dr. O. W. Hyman, dean of administration, UT College of Medicine.

Dr. Pickering then went to University research in medicine. He spent six years doing research in physiology, and finally received a medical degree from University of Chicago.

Stated To Teach
Both a physician and a dentist, he was to have returned to UT in Memphis to teach in the dental college. Dean Hyman said a contract was being negotiated and "we wanted him particularly because of his fundamental training in dentistry and medicine. He is a very able and promising man."

But the threat of war kept Dr. Pickering from returning to Memphis and he became a Navy doctor.

Some weeks ago while a destroyer was cutting through a typhoon-tossed sea on patrol duty, Second Class Seaman Lawrence Casey, 22, of Oregon, suddenly doubled up with severe abdominal pains. He had an acute attack of appendicitis.

Lt. Pickering fought his way across the windy, rainy deck to the sailor, realized there was little chance of reaching port before the appendix burst. He had to operate immediately.

Three buddies carried Casey to the sick bay. Lt. Pickering hastily sterilized several sheets and versatility of Cincinnati as a dental interne and became interested in covered heavy objects in the room.

He threw out unsecured objects that were bouncin about.

Lashed To Table
Casey was lashed to the operating table. Lt. Pickering and his two aides, Chief Pharmacist Mate Fred Barbee, Tulsa, and Pharmacist Second Class Leonard Benjamin, Seattle, fastened themselves to the table with adhesive tape.

Then, for an hour and ten minutes, as the slim ocean greyhound—which rides roughly at best—leaped up and down through the mountainous waves, Lt. Pickering worked to saved Casey's life. The destroyer commander said the seas were running worse than at any time in his ten years' experience in the Pacific.

But Lt. Pickering performed the operation successfully, said "he was one of the best patients I ever had."

Casey was more concerned about getting seasick than anything else, was only under a local anesthetic. He looked at himself in a mirror after the operation, and asked, "Hey Doc, do you suppose they'll give me a wound stripe for this?"

After 12 days, Casey returned to light duty aboard the destroyer. The crew gave Lt. Pickering and his aides a plaque.—Memphis Press-Scimitar, July 6, 1942.

Gill-Dove Airport is the scene of bustling activity now as thirty future pilots for the Navy learn how to fly. The hangar has been practically doubled over its original size with a machine shop and forty-five more feet on the hangar added. Since this picture was made a railing has been built around the top of the flat roof to make a roof garden.

Former English Head Now Polytech Prexy

Students of UTJC, 1933 to 1938, will certainly remember the Head of the English Department at that time, Professor Everett Derryberry, now President of Tennessee Polytechnic Institute. They will likewise remember the football team that Coach Derryberry (the same professor) and his coaching staff developed during that period. It was eight of these varsity players who followed Assistant Coach Cecil "Sammy" Humphreys to Memphis State in the fall of 1937 and helped to boost Head Coach Allyn McKeen into the limelight of Southern football and subsequently into the head mentor's shoes at Mississippi State. Professor Derryberry resigned from the headship at UTJC to accept the same position at Murray State in the fall of 1938. He remained there for only two years before he was called to his present position as President of Tennessee Polytechnic at Cookeville. "Here" the Rhodes Scholar, English head, football coach, etc., is fast distinguishing himself as a college executive. His English-born wife (since 1937 a accomplished musician having taught this subject two terms at UTJC, and a charming person in her own right. The Derryberrys have two fine, bright youngsters, Walter and June.

Eggs and War

Tennessee has been asked to make a vast increase in egg production in 1943 over 1942. This request, brought down to Weakley County as an illustration, means that the county is asked to slightly more than double the egg production of 1942. Not all other counties have been asked to make this tremendous increase, but Weakley County is favorably considered as an egg producing county.

The flock at The University of Tennessee Junior College produced eggs to the value of $9.00 per day throughout the month of December, 1942. During the year, 1942, the College flock produced 85,000 eggs.

The Army likes its eggs and has a standard of one egg a day, every day in the year, for its men. The College last year produced enough to give an egg a day for 365 days for 233 men of the armed forces. Wouldn't that go a long way in Great Britain under her present ration system of eggs?

This record would encourage officials to believe the Junior College will do all in its power to produce more eggs. The College will also strive to meet its quota of all other needs in farm produce. Alumni of the College may also be depended upon to meet the 1943 farm goals, as they serve as county and home agents and in similar capacities, and as farmers and home makers.

LT. BYARS VISITS HERE IN FAST TRAINER

Lt. Macon Byars, 1935-36, flew in at the local airport recently for a few hours visit with home folks. The mechanic with Macon told us he was considered one of the best instructors on the field. He is located at Greenville, Tex., and gave us a demonstration of his flying ability after he took off for the return trip.

Gill-Dove Port Ready For Men

Expanded Facilities Brought Local Field Up To Needs of Increased Quota of Men

The enlarged quota of men detailed by the Navy to receive basic training at U. T. Junior College was possible because of the constant expansion which has been made by Gill-Dove management since the airport was first established here.

Last summer when there were only ten students in each quota or class taking training, Mr. Staulcup built 45 more feet onto the hangar enlarging it to a total length of 107 feet with an eighteen plane capacity. Training was started with two planes and now there are six. Four more will be added if Mr. Staulcup can get the War Department to release them for purchase. He states he knows where they are and that they are not in use. A plane is needed for each five men in training and ten planes would enable the field to train a class of fifty men at a time.

The landing field itself is to be enlarged and extended to take care of the expansion expected. Increased acreage is being sought which would increase the size of the field to 700 acres. Options are being signed by a committee on the acreage surrounding the present field limits so that these planes may have sufficient landing and take-off space without undue danger. The larger field will be of sufficient size also for accommodating some of the large planes that fly over Martin as well as the fast fighter planes which require a longer runway for landing. After the war the airport may become a passenger plane stop as well as a mail and fast express stop. At any rate it will not be because Martin and Weakley County citizens lacked the vision to make ready for this, if present plans go through.

The grounds of the airport were recently landscaped by Professor J. E. McMahon and beautiful plantings made which will make the approach one of the beauty spots of Martin. A roof garden and canteen will be opened at the airport by the management in the Spring. This roof garden is built on top of the offices and machine shop, the latter also having been constructed and equipped last summer and fall.
